DO YOU REMEMBER WHEN...

Springville winter sledding mishaps in 1870s and 1939

From Springville New Era, Dec. 10, 1925, recalled by Fred Butler, then 68: "Do you remember when George Durno and Curt Smith were sliding downhill from the cemetery with the school mams, and (another) sled was going east, and the two met on the bridge. Durno had a rib broken and Curt Smith had an arm broken. Kate Carter, one of the teachers, was carried into a house on a stretcher."

This probably happened in the 1870s. George and Elizabeth Durno moved from Dubuque to Springville in 1870. George ran a general store, and in 1881 was elected Springville's first mayor. Curtis G. Smith, who farmed east of Springville, arrived in 1855 from Ohio. His wife was Margaret. Kate Carter, the teacher, could not be traced.

In 1871, Smith would have been about 37, Durno about 33. Some might question why two respectable married men were sledding with single "school mams." Possible explanation: Durno, Smith, and the teachers might have been with a group of sledders, and no impropriety occurred. Fred Butler can't provide any more details, alas; he died in 1941.

Crash involved sled, two vehicles

From Springville news in Central City News-Letter, Jan. 16, 1939: "Thursday evening Paul Stanley, in an attempt to avoid running over two coasters, Donald Christian and Melvin Boots, crashed into Fred Taylor's pickup and seriously injured the boys. The accident occurred in front of Newman's service station. The boys were taken to the hospital. Donald had a broken arm and many bruises. Melvin's leg was broken in two places. Both Stanley's and Taylor's cars were badly damaged."

Donald, 14, was the son of Ethel Cashman Christian, widow of Harvey "Harve" Willis and Mary Clark Boots were the parents of Melvin, just turned 16. Stanley was a 1937 Springville High graduate, son of Mary Hall Stanley and her late husband Alfred. Taylor, 55, and his wife, Jennie Dunbar Taylor, lived at 309 North Ave. (now Jon and Treva Davis' home).

Hubert "Stub" Newman, 40, owned the station on the southeast corner of Broadway and Fifth Avenue. The directions of sled and vehicles weren't reported. Possibly the sledders were going east down the Fifth Avenue hill, toward north-south traffic on Broadway. The boys were lucky to have survived, even with fractures.

Postscript: Fred Taylor's son, also named Fred, was a Springville High School senior in January 1939. He would have heard a firsthand report of the accident from his father. Now 95, he lives in La Mesa, Calif., with his wife Peggy.

Wild children sledding

Bernita Wild, almost 4, and her brother Robert, almost 2, enjoy sledding near their home on N. Broadway in Springville. This February 1924 photo was taken by their mother, Mina Muenstermann Wild. Their father was William K. Wild. Bernita, who married Kenneth Andersen, died at 93 in 2013. Robert moved to California; he died in 1955 at age 33.

Sled found in river, child missing

The Springville New Era printed this sad report Thursday, Jan. 8, 1914: "Little 7-year-old Kenneth Kearns, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Kearns of Cedar Rapids, disappeared Tuesday afternoon of last week and is supposed to have drowned in the Cedar River, as his sled . . . was found in the water." The boy's mother, Mary Kearns, 33, was the daughter of Charles and Elizabeth Cartano, and granddaughter of Caroline Cartano and her late husband Anton, all of Springville.

Florence Snyder, the 19th centenarian

Florence Dorothy Bye was 2 when her family moved to Springville from Chester County, Pa., in 1882. She was the youngest child of Civil War veteran Samuel Bye and his wife Martha. In 1904, Florence married William F. Snyder of Anamosa, and they lived in Cedar Rapids. Widowed in 1944, Florence turned 100 March 26, 1980. She died in August that year. (An article about 18 other Springville centenarians was published in the January newsletter.)

Pollocks married in 1887

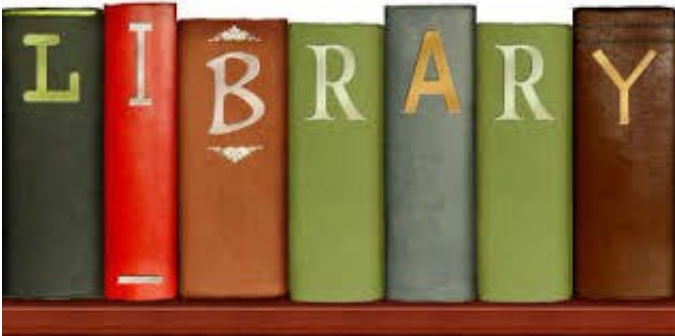

"SPRINGVILLE – Mayor and Mrs. T. W. Pollock will celebrate their golden anniversary with a family dinner here today, and on Monday, the anniversary date, members of the Fancywork Club, of which Mrs. Pollock is a member, and their husbands will be dinner guests, while open house will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. . . .

"Harriet Wilson and Thomas Wilton Pollock were married Feb. 1, 1887, in the home of her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Finley Wilson, east of Springville." (Cedar Rapids Gazette, Sunday, Jan. 31, 1937)

T. W. and Harriet "Hattie" Pollock were the grandparents of Shirley Pollock Parker, Marion. She and her husband Bob belong to the Springville Area Historical Society.

Historical Society meeting set on Valentine's Day

On Tuesday, Feb. 14, the Springville Area Historical Society (SAHS) will meet at 6:30 p.m. in the SAHS building beside City Hall. Both members and others are welcome. Annual members are asked to pay their 2017 dues ($10 per person or $15 per couple) if they have not yet done so. The January meeting had to be canceled because of weather concerns.

Love Our Library

If you've ever wondered if there was something you could do to support the Springville Memorial Library, we have the perfect place to start. We have partnered with the Junior Library Guild to provide a fundraiser which supplies the library with children's books with the help of generous donors. We get many of our children's books from the Junior Library Guild and are happy to have paired with them. Our goal is to continue to fill our library's shelves with the best, newly-published books available to keep a child's love of reading alive and well. To donate, just visit: <http://donations.juniorlibraryguild.com/j125185.html>. Thank you so much for any support you can give us.

Take a (virtual) trip:

The library has a collection of DVDs featuring landscapes and monuments of the many beautiful sites in our country. Teachers' Positive Sharing

"Now that the Winter break is over, students are getting academically motivated. Students receiving academic interventions in math are making great improvements in the areas of number sense, as well as noticeable improvement in the classroom core math."

"I believe the teacher workshops after school have been very beneficial for sharing teacher knowledge and are also helping teachers reach out/network more with other teachers professionally."

"At our LCI meeting with Steve Ventura, we learned about the characteristics of a visible learner. At the elementary, the teacher leaders have been working to share these characteristics with teachers who, in turn, are going to take turns presenting and teaching each characteristic to our elementary students each week at our Monday morning assemblies. We did create a "before" video to capture responses of students when asked what do good learners do? We are excited to do another video at the end of the school year with the same prompt to see the growth and understanding of our students with these ideas of visible learners! "

"Third graders are in the midst of our Structures of Life science kit and have already studied the life cycle of plants as we've been growing bush herbs in hydroponic tanks in our classroom. We are looking forward to further studies of animal life cycles and behaviors as we investigate owl pellets and welcome live crayfish to our classroom."

"Fifth graders are learning more about how plants and animals get their nutrients and expressing their learning through seesaw."

"Springville placed 1st in School Cents taking home $7,500.00. We also placed first in the video publicity event that we produced."

"Three students attended Dorian Festival in Decorah. They worked with FANTISTIC directors from Luther and with Stacey Gibbs who is a very well-known modern composer/arranger. Their experience was funded by SAMS."

"Rehearsal for Music Man is coming along nicely. We have been through every song and will begin blocking soon. There is a need for parental/adult help in various capacities. Please contact Mrs. Jorgenson if you are at all willing to help."

"Preschool performed our winter program on January 23rd, the kids all did a great job."

"I am fired up to teach Personal Finance for the first time in two years. It's one of the most important courses any student could ever take and we are going to have some fun and the students will be exposed to ideas to enable them to be financially well in life."

Good news

SPRINGVILLE WINS SEVEN!!

Congratulations to the Springville School District and the community. The school has won School Cents for a seventh year in a row. They earned a total of $7,500 this year. Some of the winnings will be used to help with the new elementary playground. The old playground equipment will not be able to be used due to law updates and the equipment not being handicap accessible and other safety concerns. Some of the money will also be used for smaller projects..
