Welcome June!! My favorite month of the year. I feel like we have so much going on in town. Now that things are finally settling down from Derecho and COVID (knock on wood). The City is putting its focus on cleaning up the community. We have sponsored garage sale days on June 12 from 8-4 and Amnesty Day on June 19. Time to get all that junk that has been piling up inside our homes and out side of our homes out of here. Good riddance!! The City will then be looking very closely at our nuisance ordinances so we can get things cleaned up. We have been getting a lot of negative feed back about the way our community looks and we want it to be a welcoming community. If there is something you need help with give us a call, we might know of a resource that can help you.

There is a flyer on page 5 of this newsletter about a GREAT resource. It is called PATCH (Providing Assistance to Community Homeowners). This is a great place to start if you need rental/utility assistance or any help from the Derecho storm. There is a number to call and they will get you matched up to the proper resource to help you with your specific needs. I know so many of us suffered from the Derecho and this help is coming from State and Federal monies. They want to make sure the small communities are getting the help they need. Please reach out if you need anything. They are continuing to add resources so let them try to help.

We had our community strategic planning meeting last month and had great response from our community. Our engineers are sorting it all out and will meet with us soon to see what direction everyone wants Springville to go. Speaking of moving forward, Emmons Park project is moving forward. Now that things are opening back up it is time to start bettering our community and we have heard from so many of you how important our trail systems are.

It feels good to start moving forward. I hope you are as excited about it as I am!

A STROLL THROUGH THE HIS

A look at varied bridal attire ‘back in the day’

What did the bride wear? Following is a sample of gown descriptions from 1882 to 1926. The material in quotation marks was provided by wedding reports in the Springville New Era.

1882, Christmas Day – Clara Belle Burger, 20, and Charles “Fred” Butler were married at the home of the bride’s parents, Abraham and Margaret Burger. “The bride was attired in a silk dress of the color known as ‘dregs of wine’” (probably dark burgundy).

1904, January 20 – Jennie Cool and Hallie Reed were both of Viola. Jennie was “becomingly attired in a gown of lavender Lansdown silk, trimmed with cream-colored silk, medallions, and applique.”

About 1909, June 8 – Caroline Dunlap, 23, of Springville and the Rev. Paul E. Ratsch of Portland, Ore., had met as students at Coe College. For the wedding, “the bride wore a gown made of just, a beautiful thin creamy white cloth woven in the Philippines.” Caroline’s parents were Mr. and Mrs. Alexander T. Dunlap.

1910, January 26 – Roxsey Ethel Bell, 22, was dressed in “white brocaded satin over soft white satin with pearl and crystal trimmings” for her marriage to Charles Jay McShane. The home of the bride’s parents, William “Billy” and Jennie Bell (on the site of today’s Presbyterian church parking lot) was the setting.

1912, February – In a double wedding, Ada Mae Hoag, 24, married Samuel Bair, and her sister Vernie Case Hoag, 22, became the bride of Clelland Port. “The brides were attired alike in beautiful gowns of cream Lansdown trimmed with silk chenille and cream net yoke trimmed with silver.” Their parents were Nathan and Margaret Price Hoag.

1926, November 13 – Irvine Leah Romans, 22, and Charles Vlasak were married at the home of the bride’s parents, Joe and Rachel Calvert Romans (the former 1865 brick school on High Avenue). Irvine “looked very becoming in a white satin dress with rhinestone trimmings and a veil held by orange blossoms.”

1927, July – The bride’s gown was not described, but the location was unusual. Leona Irvine Campbell, 21, of Springville and William C. Dunlap of Marion exchanged vows on the launch Bobolink “on the calm waters of Clear Lake.” (Did the wedding guests wish them smooth sailing?)

ON MAY 15, 1863, several Springville soldiers lost their lives in the Civil War Battle of Champion Hill, Miss., a key part of the Vicksburg Campaign. Now the American Battlefield Trust is raising funds to buy the 144-acres site from the Champion family. If this goal is achieved, the land will always be protected from development.

At left: In 1902, the well-dressed bride was “laced up” to wear her wasp-waisted, floor-length gown. The train needed flower girls to keep it off the floor. At right: Just 19 years later, what a difference! The 1921 hemline was raised far enough to display the bride’s ankles, and a combination veil and train flowed from a caplike headpiece. (Thanks to Bill Herren for locating the drawings.)

TORY OF SPRINGVILLE, IOWA

The landscape on High Avenue has been altered forever. On the afternoon of May 6, 2021, a landmark which had stood for over a century and a half was demolished. The two-story brick building had been constructed as an elementary school in 1865, but served that purpose for only 17 of its 156 years. Robert and the late Patricia Crane and their five children were the last family to live in it. The final owner was Steve McShane. (Photo by Wes Bender)

Teachers, pupils at 1865 brick school remembered

The 1865 brick building on Springville's High Avenue is gone, 156 years after it was built at a cost of $1,200. For 17 years, Grades 1 through 8 were educated there. For the next 132 years, people lived in it. During its last seven years, the building stood empty. It was razed May 6, 2021.

Where the bricks were produced, and who built the school, are unknown. However, we have the names of two teachers and three pupils – among many others lost in the mists of time.

Zarah V. Elsberry, born in 1833 in Indiana, moved to Springville in 1855. He served three years in the Civil War, was discharged in July 1865, and began teaching at the new school. For 16 terms Elsberry taught there and at area country schools. The school year consisted of fall, winter and spring terms. Teachers didn't always stay for all three terms.

Corwin D. Stickney, an Ohio native, moved to the Crabapple area west of Springville in 1865 with his uncle and aunt, Charles and Fannie Abbott. When he was 20, Stickney taught at the brick school, apparently just in 1868-69. He then moved to Center Point, but returned to Springville and owned a hardware store and tin shop from 1872 to 1885.

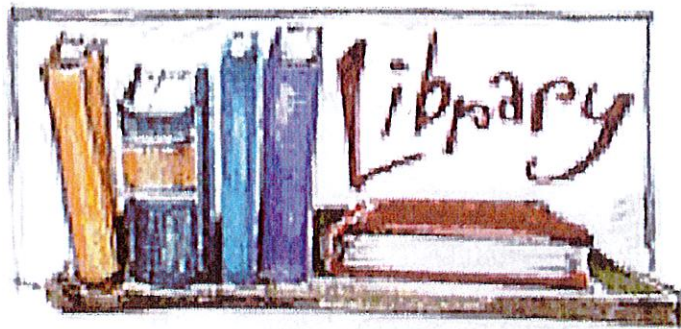

The Springville New Era interviewed Stickney in May 1928, sixty years after he had taught here. At that time, he lived in Marion. He named three of his pupils at the brick school:

Leonard "Len" Christman, born in 1856 near Dubuque, moved to Springville at age 7 with his parents and two sisters. (Four more siblings were born here.) As an adult, Len took over his father John's general store on Broadway and converted it to a hardware store.

Springville native Charles "Fred" Butler, born in 1857, was the grandson of Col. Isaac Butler, a Springville pioneer in 1840. Fred's father, Joseph Butler, founded the Exchange Bank in 1878. When Joseph died in 1898, Fred succeeded him as president.

Daniel W. Hampton, born at Springville in 1858, was the oldest child of Oliver L. and Hannah Gregg Hampton, Quakers from Ohio. Four of their seven children died in infancy or childhood. Dan and two brothers, Dilwin and Wilbur, lived into their 90s.
