"PAUSE. BREATH. CRY IF YOU MUST. BUT KEEP GOING."

Holy Derecho! Does anyone else feel like we are in the Twilight Zone? We started our year out just like any other, nothing special, then BAM here comes Covid-19. We all said we were in it together and we all did our part to socially distance, we took proper steps to make sure we were keeping others and ourselves safe. Just as summer was coming to an end and we were all hopeful to get back to some sense of normalcy living with Covid-19, then comes the 100-year storm, Derecho! If you could only hear me while I am growling the word Derecho.

I don't know about the rest of you, but I agree with something I saw on Facebook; "We are lowa, we are strong, but we are tired". I have been involved in Emergency Management Calls and I have heard the devastation in other communities. I believe that we were hit just as hard as Marion and Cedar Rapids, but we are obviously on a smaller scale. With that being said, I have to say how proud I am of our small town. From the moment the storm hit about 12:30 pm August 10 to current day this community has been a team. I took shelter at home during the storm and had to walk back to work because of the downed lines and trees. What I saw at about 1:45 pm was a fully functioning, responding Fire Department. I was joined by my Deputy Clerk and immediately put to work helping to answer emergency phone calls, logging all activity, and organizing volunteers to help with traffic. It was awesome to see the leadership and the devotion of our volunteer fire fighters. Several of them had sustained major damage to their own homes and businesses, but they were here taking care of the larger community and they were focused on the job that needed to be done to keep our residents safe. Our City public works went right to work helping to get the streets barricaded to keep the residents safe and getting started on opening streets so people could get home. Our Mayor was working right beside our Fire Chief and his assistants to get us support immediately. We had council out directing traffic. Your local officials kicked it into high gear. We put a call out for volunteers which because of the loss of phone service people didn't respond, but what you all did do was help your neighbors. You were all out that very day and the entire next week. We hauled well over 600 loads of debris out of the yard waste site for seven days straight. By the time we got back to the task of widening the street path, it was clear that our community took care of business to get things cleaned up. You all made it very light work for us. We still had volunteers the following week to help with citizens who didn't have a way to get their debris to the yard waste site.

I can honestly say that 2020 is giving us a run for our money, but I can also honestly say that I wouldn't want to be enduring all this crazy in any other community!

MASK MANDATES AT SCHOOL

Springville CSD has instituted a mandatory face coverings policy for all Springville buildings and activities for anyone school-age and above when social distancing cannot occur. This includes students, athletes, visitors, and spectators. The only exceptions to this mandate are those individuals who are actively participating in an activity (officials, teams playing/on sidelines) and those individuals will be governed by association or union policies. Spectators who arrive at a game without a face covering will need to purchase a disposable one at the admission table.

We are asking that all individuals planning to attend anything at the school abide by this policy so that we can ensure that our school year and extra-curricular activities can occur for all of our students. Thank you for your help and for your doing your part to make Springville CSD a safe place to be!

PRESCHOOL BEAUTIFICATION

It all started when Beau Zaruba and Matt March put in a new sidewalk to the entrance of the preschool at the old elementary, Al Woods started looking at the space on either side of the sidewalk and thought we need to pretty this up for the preschoolers. So Al put out the word, asking for flowers, etc to put along the sidewalk. On August 8, Al, Tami Mysak and Treva Davis showed up to plant flowers and put down mulch. John and Kristyn Ryan donated the mulch and Al and Treva donated plants and before long there were plants lining the sidewalks, hopefully to be in full bloom in the spring.

Below: Tami putting down mulch by the corner door.

The finished project —— waiting for the arrival of the preschoolers. Enjoy kids.

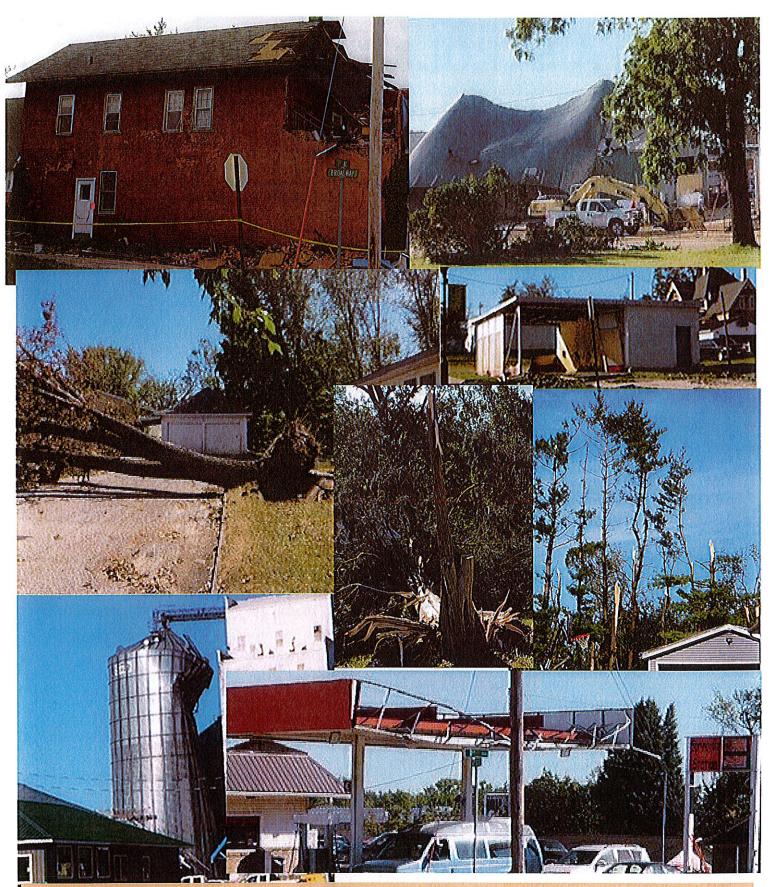

The American Legion Post 331 held their drawing for the meat and freezer on August 1. The winner was Tim Zip of Cedar Rapids. Thanks to all who bought tickets, the proceeds went to the many Legion scholarship programs.

A STROLL THROUGH THE HI

Springville teacher recalled Grant Wood's model

By Bertha Koppenhaver (1909-2002)

I was 20 when I first met Dr. Byron McKeeby, the model for the dour farmer in "American Gothic." A senior at Coe, I had developed an excruciating toothache which called for immediate professional attention. Some helpful soul steered me to Dr. McKeeby.

My first impression was that of a dapper, white-jacketed elderly man with beautifully manicured nails. He soon relieved my pain and then proposed a complete overhaul of my teeth, postponing payment until I had a teaching job the next fall. This sounded good to me, for I was going to college on a shoestring . . . The amount was $90, a goodly sum for those days.

Jobs were extremely scarce in 1930, but I managed to land a teaching position because I could teach music as well as my major (home economics). There was a state law that a teacher with a B. A. degree must be paid $120 a month – for nine months – but by 1933 the Depression had deepened and I was cut to $90 a month, or $810 a year. No benefits or sick leave.

Only the superintendent and the coach at our school owned cars. If we teachers wanted to go to Cedar Rapids on a Saturday, we had to take the bus, hitchhike, or impose upon someone in town who owned a car. On occasion, I even hooked a ride with the Springville milk truck.

At that time there was a mighty furor about Grant Wood's paintings with their bulbous trees and stylized cornfields. On weekends we visited Stone City (Wood's art colony) and gaped at the artists and their decorated Hubbard milk wagons.

Back to Dr. McKeeby. The Gazette often reproduced Wood's paintings . . . and the arguments raged on about the artistic worth of "Daughters of Revolution" and "Dinner for Threshers." One day I opened the paper to see "American Gothic" staring me in the face. On my next trip to the dentist, I said, "That farmer has to be you!" He readily confessed: "Yes, you're right. We trade work. He paints me, and I do his bridges."

I protested, however, that the picture hadn't done the doctor any favors. To depict this sophisticated, suave, perfectly tailored member of the Cedar Rapids Country Club as an overalled, sourpuss farmer was shocking, to say the least.

I am not sure that I approved, but I never joined those harsh critics who belittled Grant Wood's amazing talents. However, little did I know that the face of my doctor friend would attract the attention of the whole world.

NOTE: Bertha Nelson Koppenhaver taught at Springville High School from 1932 to 1937, and from 1948 to 1971. After she retired from teaching in 1976, she became a valued community volunteer in Springville for 25 years. It was her tireless work at the Springville Memorial Library that started the push and need for a new library. She died May 28, 2002, at age 92. This delightful reminiscence was shared by her granddaughter, Kelly DeVore.

Monument ceremony delayed

Rededication of the Brown Monument in the Springville Cemetery has been delayed due to holdups in restoration work by Memorials by Michel, of Solon. Originally scheduled for September 11, the rededication will now be on a later date, to be announced.

TORY OF SPRINGVILLE, IOWA

Some 'facts' about the Nathan Brown family aren't facts!

History is a strange thing. Sometimes traditionally accepted "facts" turn out not to be true. Such is the case with the family of Nathan Brown, the Revolutionary War veteran buried in the Springville Cemetery. Even gravestones occasionally get it wrong!

Nathan Brown was born July 22, 1762. The Brown monument and other sources claim 1761, but records indicate it was the next year. His parents were married March 7, 1762; their first child (Nathan) arrived July 22 and was baptized Oct. 30, 1762. Years later, when Nathan applied for a veteran's pension, he listed 1762 as his birth year.

Only Nathan and one brother, Josiah Brown Jr. (born 1764) are definitely known to have been Revolutionary War soldiers. A family history on the Brown monument claims all seven Brown brothers were in the war. However, no military records have been found for Stacy, Leaming, Melvin, Zadock and Horace. When British General Cornwallis surrendered in 1781, Horace was only 2, and the others were 7, 9, 11, and 14.

Esther Waterbury was Nathan Brown's first wife. Sarah Bailey, often claimed for this role, married a different Nathan Brown. She died in April 1812 and is buried in Ivandell Cemetery, Somers, Westchester County, N. Y. Esther Waterbury Brown's birth and death dates, and burial place, are unknown. She was the mother of one son, John Chapman Brown (1787-1847). He did not come to Iowa.

Tamar Brown, Nathan's second wife, died March 25, 1867 – not 1868, as the Brown monument proclaims. A microfilmed copy of her handwritten probate record, stating that her will was read in open court April 2, 1867, can be seen at the Genealogical Society of Linn County in Cedar Rapids. (Tamar signed her will with an "X" because she was illiterate, not unusual for women of her era.)

Sarah Jane preceded Julia Ann. It's not widely known that Horace Brown, Nathan's son, had two wives. He married Sarah Jane Lewis, 17, on Nov. 8, 1846, in Linn County, Iowa. In 1850 or '51, while Horace was in California prospecting for gold, Sarah left him for another man. Julia Ann Chapman, 29, became Horace's second wife Dec. 22, 1853. Not surprisingly, Sarah receives no mention in Horace's published biographies.

Alas for Briner's Store

The August 10 derecho, with winds over 100 miles per hour, caused grievous damage in the Springville area. One of the casualties was the 19th-century Briner's store building on the South Side. William Briner owned it from fall 1911 until he died Dec. 5, 1912. His widow, Jessie Dunlap Briner, then carried on the business for many years. In 1932, her son Howard Briner returned from California and, with his wife Bea, ran the store for about 50 years. (Photo by Treva Davis)

Regular City Council Meeting—August 3, 2020

The Springville City Council met in regular session August 3, 2020. In order to help stop the spread of the COVID-19 virus, this meeting of the Springville City Council was held electronically. Chapter 21.8 of the Iowa Code does permit an electronic meeting where all members participate remotely when an in-person meeting is impossible or impractical, which is certainly true during this crisis. On March 19, 2020, Governor Reynolds issued a Proclamation of Disaster Emergency, which included a suspension of Iowa laws that would prevent the use of electronic meetings or the limitation on the number of people present at an in-person meeting site. The agenda had this message posted more than 24 hours in advance to give instructions on how others could participate in the meeting: Due to the COVID-19 crisis, the City of Springville will be holding this City Council meeting electronically via a conference call. If you would like to participate in the meeting, please call (425)-436-6369 and enter this access code: 331423. Only City staff are allowed in City hall.

The pledge of allegiance recited to begin the meeting.

Discussion held regarding options for emptying yard waste. Discussion tabled until next meeting to hear what options Wapsi Waste can provide.

Discussion held regarding Liberty Ave. street repair. After curb & gutter repair, found that street needed major repair. Council is weighing options between hot mix, concrete or asphalt. Also, looking at LOST numbers.

Linn County Sheriff's report presented. There were 12 calls for service between 7/20/2020-8/3/2020.

Wyman presented maintenance report.

No one in town ever thought that they would see such destruction, but they did after the derecho on August 10. Instantly, the town kicked into survival mode and began the process of trying to get back to normal. The fire department went door to door checking on everyone in town and giving them an update. The City workers were recruiting volunteers to direct traffic, clearing streets and also checking to make sure everyone was OK. The City Council and Mayor was present to pitch in where they were needed

You have to love a small town where neighbors help each other and check on each other, bringing them ice, helping to clean up and the list goes on and on. A small town, where those with generators call to say, "bring your frozen stuff to my house, I have room in my freezer". A small town where you are cleaning up limbs by yourself and someone comes by with a chain saw and a crew of volunteers to help you clean up your yard that would have taken days instead of just an hour. A small town where we just look after each other. Luckily there were no injury from the sudden storm and most of us found the things from our property that went flying. Let's hope that we don't have to go through something like this again, but if we do, next time the City will have a plan in place from what they learned from this storm. I think we did a pretty good job of putting our town back together by just flying by the seat of our pants, and we did that by working together.

Thank you Springville for taking care of one another.
